Dear Sir

Whilst I appreciate the importance of electrification of the railway line between Mossley and Diggle, there have been no constructive suggestions as to the alternative route for motor vehicles. It is going to be totally chaotic as drivers try to negotiate alternative very narrow roads, many of which already have huge numbers of parked cars which result in one way traffic. Also, what about emergency vehicles?

Shop-keepers, business owners, residents and infact everyone is going to face HUGE problems accessing Uppermill.

Whilst writing, I would also mention the closure of the pedestrian level crossing at Moorgate which is closed. I understand that the originally proposed footbridge has been cancelled and in its place is a very dangerous footpath - steep and dangerous at the top and extremely dangerous at the bottom out onto the main road with no proper pavement and no view of oncoming traffic.

Please note my objections

Mrs SJ Pelmore (Local Resident)
