Having lived on the Gough Way estate through two floods I know just how much anxiety and suffering was caused and like all other Gough Way residents flooding of the Bin Brook is often in my thoughts. The risk of flooding to the Gough Way estate has not been fully addressed in the proposals for the Cambourne to Cambridge busway and the fact that large areas of impermeable concrete will be placed on the floodplain, that is the West Fields, seems to me unacceptable.

In addition to the flooding issue, I feel that the loss of the Coton Orchard with its fine collection of heritage Apple trees and a large tract of greenbelt is totally unnecessary as there is a perfectly acceptable alternative route. The buses could use the Madingley Road with a simple addition of an eastbound bus lane. This solution both saves an enormous quantity of money and means that the seemingly insoluble problem of what happens when busway buses hit Grange Road will no longer need to be solved.

Yours sincerely

Dr William Mullen
