As a horse rider I find this re-route potentially extremely dangerous. Road users are supposed to slow down to 10mph and pass 2m away from horses and cyclists - check the Highway Code. 4m from a railway line is just not safe, and I doubt your trains will be slowing down to 10mph for the 1k of the new track.

If not, why not?

How many horse riders were consulted and what was their conclusion?

Also I don't recall seeing any costs for this anywhere.
